LOUIS APPELT.
APRIL 21, 1915.

MANNING, S. C., JUNE 21, 1916
PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY

L. I. APPELT,
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

AS THE EDITOR SEES IT.

The Republicans nominated Justice Hughes for the presidency and he immediately chose "Americanism" for his campaign slogan. The Progressives at the same time nominated Colonel Roosevelt, and the colonel is well known as a staunch advocate of Americanism, although he may yet decline the nomination. Later the Democrats re-nominated President Wilson, whose slogan is also "Americanism" and whose views along this line have been repeatedly voiced.

Thus it is seen that whoever may be elected in November, Americanism is to be the watchword of the future.

It is well, for if there is one thing above all else that is needed in this country it is a strong and ever increasing spirit of Americanism.

But while the presidential aspirants are agitating Americanism, let us of the local community coin a few "isms" for our own individual and collective weal, and force them through with the same energy and perseverance that is being exercised in the national arena.

America needs Americanism, and in like measure our own community needs a broader spirit of communityism. We should annex an "ism" to our homes, and to our business enterprises, and our schools, and churches, and societies, and to every other feature of our local existence.

We should make those "isms" integral parts of our every day life, and pursue them to a successful conclusion in every case.

We should raise the standard of communityism and rally every citizen to the colors.

Give us Americanism for the good of our country, but let us have communityism for the weal of our women, and our children, and our homes, and ourselves.

Let's make "Americanism and Communityism" the slogan for this town and this countryside.

This life is full of snares and pitfalls for the tripping of the unwary, and the man who is arrogant in his pride stumbles into them the most readily of all. Confidence is self and a just pride in a clean life are to be commended, but arrogance and a refusal to consider the rights of others leads straight to the brink of oblivion.

Sit tight, take a firm grip, and listen and think while we speak of good roads again. The rains are coming on, and the roads will be getting bad, and automobiles will be getting mired, and teams will sap their vitality in pulling light loads to their destination. You, incidentally, may be voicing your complaints at the conditions that prevail. But don't do it. You have had many years in which you could have used your powerful influence in behalf of better roads, and had you done so, and others followed suit, we now would have had one great highway for many miles around. It is never too late, however, to mend our ways, and the omissions of today may be remedied tomorrow if we possess the will to plan and do. Good roads are essential to community success and personal enjoyment, and every citizen would do well to labor unceasingly to this end until there is not a foot of objectionable highway left in our entire section of the county. Better roads will put more money in your pockets. Go to it, brother, go to it.

We might with profit to ourselves consider the contrast between our words of mouth and those of our neighbors. If we speak kindly of him and he traduces us the contrast is all in our favor, and the general public is not slow to perceive it. If, however, the tables are reversed we are the loser and he stands forth as "a man." Which shall it be? The answer and the verdict are in the hands of each individual person, and it will never be otherwise.

FORGETTING THE OTHER END.

There are many things that would improve conditions in this town and the surrounding territory, but the one defect which impresses itself most forcibly upon our mind at this time is the lack of unanimity and cohesiveness in social affairs.

With each individual the town or community in which he lives is like a piece of rope or twine. It has two ends, and each should be in harmony and work smoothly with the other.

The one end is where we begin our life in the community, and the other is when death or removal breaks the connection. We devote our time, our own thoughts, and our energies to the beginning and to each successive step as we progress through life. The end is but a phantom of the future and we give it but little heed.

And therein we err, for it is not wise to forget the other end. We need an awakening and a more cohesive spirit in the social life of this town and of this countryside. We need a greater spirit of fraternity in our associations one with another. A spirit of brotherhood and sisterhood should bind us closer together for the common weal for all.

In the pleasures and the excitements of today we forget that there is a tomorrow for which we must provide, and in this omission we too frequently are storing up isolation and loneliness for the latter years of life.

As we begin, so do we invariably end. If we cultivate a spirit of aloofness and exclusiveness in the days of our youth, then we must expect that in the ripeness of old age others will maintain the barrier that separates us to the end.

The joys and pleasures of youth are easy to acquire, but as time silvers our locks they are more difficult to obtain.

The person who adheres to an exclusive clique today may find that tomorrow the integral parts have drifted away and that other doors are closed. And it is then that the gayness of the winter of life is brought home to the one who lives in the beginning and forgets the other end.

We all have our good qualities and our faults, some more pronounced than others. None of us ever perfect, for we are but human and are of the same clay. Let us then remember that life of tomorrow will be just as we shape our beginning today. Let us bear in mind that the end of the string may be sharp and strong and virile, or that it may be old and worn and frazzled.

Life, like the string, has a beginning and an end, and the end must inevitably pay for the omissions of the beginning.

Those who cultivate friendships in the summer of youth will find that in the decline of life others will cleave to them, and that the mellowness of old age will be filled with joy instead of being saddened by sorrows and regrets.

In our intercourse one with another, friends, let us remember that each day we are approaching the other end of life, and that the end will be in accordance with the precepts and policies of the beginning.

Let us make of this a community of friends, and not merely of acquaintances.

Let us transform the gray winter of life into a perpetual sunshine of summer.

The road to success is a hard one to travel, but we'll get there just the same if we keep right on stumbling along.

"Americanism" is a good slogan, but "Americanism and Communityism" is the best one of all.

The lowly dog is faithful to his friend until death. Get down to the level of the dog.

It is all over now but the campaigning and the voting and the counting and the shouting.

Christian charity, however, can be practiced anywhere except in a political campaign.

These are the days, forsooth, when the pot will be industriously painting the kettle black.

The Y. M. C. A. in Minneapolis, Minn., raised $1,150,000.00 in just eight days. We, however, would be quite well satisfied if we could raise one-tenth of that amount from our delinquent subscribers in eight years.

Some people are so superstitious they won't sit down to a table of thirteen people. But if there's thirteen dollars under the plate they'll grab 'em without ever a blink.

The sun, we hope, will continue to shine this summer, whether the phlogiston pot sizzles or not.

Praise the Lord for an old time red hot political campaign. It may divert our thoughts from Europe and enable us to forget His Mexican Whiskership entirely.

If there is one single instant in this life when we love our neighbor as ourself it is when he comes in and planks down the price of his subscription.

Five thousand suffragettes paraded in Chicago in a heavy rain. This, though, by no means signifies that they would go to the polls and vote under like conditions.

If you failed to connect up with the national convention you at least have the satisfaction of knowing that you are several smokes to the good.

A good brother arises to remark that for once we are to have a sane political campaign. In which case, we opine, it will be anything but a political, etc.

Forethought.

People are learning that little forethought often saves a big expense. Here are an instance: E. W. Archer, Caldwell, Ohio, writes: "I do not believe that our family has been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy since we commenced keeping house years ago. When we go on an extended visit we take it with us." Obtainable everywhere—A V.

How To Give Quinine To Children.

FEBRILE is the trade-mark name given to an improved Quinine. It is a Tasteless Syrup, pleasant to take and does not disturb the stomach. Children take it and never know it is Quinine. Also especially adapted to adults who cannot take ordinary Quinine. Does not nauseate nor cause nervousness or ringing in the head. Try it the next time you need Quinine for any purpose. Ask for 2-ounce original package. The name FEBRILE is blown in bottle. 25 cents.

Throwing the Lariat.
Each lispng male child of the southwestern ranch just as soon as he is able to toddle into the vicinity of a decrepit duck or a sick kitten commences practice in roping. From his first efforts with his piece of string he continues through a graded series of puppy dogs, lambs, calves, yearlings, and so on, till, by the time he has arrived at man's estate, he can at headlong gallop twine the biggest, wildest thing that wears hair, by neck, horns or feet and hogle it down without help. In lieu of the time-honored orthodox crook, the sheep herder in the southwest has 40 feet of hempen rope, with a nice noose adjustment, handed to him in a matter-of-course way, as though he might be about to take a prominent part in a lynching drama.

A REMARKABLE STATEMENT

Mrs. Sheldon Spent $1900 for Treatment Without Benefit. Finally Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Englewood, Ill. — "While going through the Change of Life I suffered with headaches, nervousness, flashes of heat, and I suffered so much I did not know what I was doing at times. I spent $1900 on doctors and not one doctor could do me any good. One day a lady called at my house and said she had been as sick as I was at one time, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made her well, so I took it and now I am just as well as I ever was. I cannot understand why women don't see how much pain and suffering they would escape by taking your medicine. I cannot praise it enough for it saved my life and kept me from the Insane Hospital." Mrs. E. Sheldon, 8657 S. Halsted St., Englewood, Ill.

Physicians undoubtedly did their best, battled with this case steadily and could do no more, but the most scientific treatment is surpassed by the medicinal properties of the good old fashioned roots and herbs contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If any complication exists it pays to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special free advice.

Credit is an estimate of your capacity to worry about paying your bills which is held about you by a lot of total strangers. Credit is also a belief held of your ability to pay for something long after you have ceased to derive any benefit from it. Credit is likewise a gauge of your willingness to deceive yourself into the belief you can afford to buy something because you cannot pay cash for it. If every body paid cash there would be no bond issues, no huge clerical forces, no national debts, no armies or military systems, no schools such as exist today, no war, no degenerate fashions—nothing but plain, everyday living. Credit enables everybody to live a fictitious existence. Nothing exceeds like credit.—Life.
